

Public Network Terms of Service

Private Network Terms of Service

API Terms of Use

Privacy Policy

Data Security and Due Process

Data Security Overview

Data Subjects (You)

Data Controllers (Customers)

Data Processors (Vendors)

Cookie Policy

Acceptable Use Policy

Trademark Guidance

Contact

Public Network Terms of Service

1. Public Network Terms
2. Contracts are Binding and Legally Enforcable – Please Read!
3. Age Eligibility
4. Access to the Public Network
5. User Obligations
6. Content Permissions, Restrictions, and Creative Commons Licensing
7. Disclaimer of Warranties
8. Indemnification
9. Limitation of Liability
10. General Provisions

The Stack Overflow Network (also referred to herein as "Stack Overflow" or "Network") is a set of related Internet sites and other applications for questions and answers, owned and operated by Stack Exchange, Inc. ("Stack Overflow", "we" or "us"), a Delaware corporation. Stack Overflow welcomes you to the Network, the largest community of developers in the world, and invites you to participate in the community by sharing knowledge with your peers and colleagues. Like all communities, we ask that you participate in a manner that respects your fellow community members. To that end, we provide you with these terms of service to advise you of the legal obligations you assume when you engage with the Stack Overflow community or otherwise access or use the public Network or any services provided on the public Network (collectively, "Services"). These terms govern the use of the public Network (the "Public Network Terms").

To the extent you are accessing or using the private Network on behalf of a Company or Team, including without limitation by registering for an account on behalf of a Company or